The UC San Diego Institute for Public Health (IPH) invites you to join us for

The 2018 IPH Director’s Seminar:
Dr. Michael Pratt speaking on

The Global Observatory for Physical Activity: 144 Steps Towards a More Active World

February 21, 2018 12:00-1:30 PM
BRF2 1104 Conference Room

Light lunch provided.

The Global Observatory for Physical Activity – GoPA! - was created in response to a global call to action based on the five million deaths attributable to physical inactivity as described in the 2012 Lancet Physical Activity Series. GoPA! is a global network of physical activity researchers, epidemiologists, public health policy makers and practitioners that catalogues and analyzes global data on physical activity and health. GoPA! is also a Council of the International Society of Physical Activity and Health, and is coordinated by a secretariat based at the University of California, San Diego (UCSD) and the Federal University of Pelotas (UFPel), Brazil. GoPA! is chaired by Professor Michael Pratt (UCSD), coordinated by Dr. Andrea Ramirez (UFPel), and guided by an international steering committee. GoPA! has published data on surveillance, policy and research as online “country cards”, in a global almanac, and as peer reviewed scientific publications.
